The Director of Central Intelligence
Washington, D.C. 20505

77-11-49

30 November 1977

Dear Bob,

How nice to hear from you after all these years -- and thanks for your kind words on my present job. It's been a long time since our days together on the ROWAN and, like you, little did I suspect then that I would one day become the Director of Central Intelligence. It's a challenging and stimulating job though and I'm enjoying myself immensely.

As [redacted] told you on the telephone, my schedule is a bit full the day you will be here in Washington. I do hope, however, we can get together during one of your other trips this way in the not too distant future. In the meantime, thanks again for writing and all the best.

Yours,
